

When will this worthless pathetic race wake up and realize there is no such thing as "normal" and see that you're brainwashed to view "social standards" a certain way. You live a life every goddamn day of your life. You're not who you think you are. Don't let society turn you into one of them! Rebel, show up late to work, take long breaks, sleep in a little longer, write down your thoughts and desires, get your way when you gotta have it, blast loud music in your car (just not rap), don't become one of them! Be you, the REAL you! Life should be worth living but it's anything but.

Society will be the death of itself. The human race's curiosity will kill itself, just like the cat. Let's see what cutting edge technology is like in 2200. I don't even have the slightest care in the world for our generation's ideas for new inventions. There's virtually nothing left to invent, don't even try. Good luck killing the cell phone, you won't. There's too much technology now, too fucking much. Pretty soon you won't ever need to leave your house for anything; some life. TV is shit, music is shit and fake, the news is either fake or stupid, phones are too advanced, and drones are fucking retarded. Good night, I hope you all fucking die.
